Dear Bill,

The Season's Greetings to you and your staff.

I had in mind to send down a 50 pound box of assorted chocolates as a Christmas gift but found, on second thought, that this would be of no help to those who are fighting the weight problem (and might even slow up the service). In the face of the fact that I could find no other suitable present which could be divided among so many, I am settling for this note.

My esteem and appreciation for your colleagues is shared by all of my staff and by my interagency committee. Happy days!

Sincerely,

25X1
